Sample Group report

Introduction

This report summarises the results of the 360 feedback survey '360 Feedback'.

The data is gathered from the ratings given by the individual's nominated respondents (including line manager, peers, and direct reports). The individual's respondents rated the frequency with which the individual uses behaviours at work using the following rating scale:

5. Consistently exhibits exceptional behaviour and is an inspiration to colleagues
4. Always exhibits behaviour and is at times exceptional
3. Usually exhibits behaviour with an effective outcome
2. Sometimes exhibits behaviour - development would improve consistency of the behaviour
1. Rarely/never exhibits behaviour - significant development required
- n/a. Not applicable for this individual in their current role

The maximum score is 5 and the minimum score is 1. Therefore higher scores indicate areas of strength for the group and individuals within it, whereas lower scores indicate areas which could be improved through development interventions.

The charts in this report have been designed to clearly indicate what action needs to be taken in order to improve performance of the individuals, teams and organisation as a whole. The following key has been used:

The actions we recommend are as follows:

Urgent development need - Immediate action required to highlight the negative impact this is likely to be having on the organisation. Actively manage performance improvement through effective objective setting and ongoing monitoring. Provide 1-2-1 support through targeted behavioural training, mentoring, coaching and management support.

Development need - Action required quickly if this is a weakness across the whole team. Encourage people for whom this is an area of strength to support their weaker colleagues. Provide targeted behavioural training, mentoring and coaching.

Positively impacts organisational performance - Provide support from manager and/or internal coaches and mentors to further develop these behaviours.

Significantly contributes to a high-performance organisation - Utilise strengths in this area, use these groups or individuals as role models and mentors for others. Celebrate these strengths and the successes they have brought.

The high performance leadership behaviour framework

Getfeedback's 360 feedback survey utilises a framework containing 11 behaviours that have been identified as being key for effective management and leadership. It is known as the high performance leadership framework.

Individuals who display strengths in these behaviours achieve greater personal career success; have a greater impact on their organisation's performance; and handle the demands and ambiguity associated with modern dynamic work environments. Note: A high-performing individual would be expected to display strengths in 5-6 of the 11 behaviours. A high-performing group/team should display strengths in all of the behaviours.

The 11 behaviours of the leadership framework are clustered into four key areas so that success can be seen to be achieved in four key ways:

Contents of the report

This report has been designed to provide a clear indication of the strengths and development areas for the group and the individuals it. This will enable you to see how the individuals compare to one another and the group overall. Armed with this information you will be able to make accurate decisions relating to succession planning and development.

Following this the report provides a review at the cluster and behavioural level.

Section 1: Overview

This section summarises the results of the survey to give an indication of the extent to which the groups, and individuals within them, are using the high performance behaviours within the framework.

The report begins with a summary of the Leadership Potential Indicator (LPI) scores for the group and individuals within it. The LPI, the average rating given by the nominees across all questions, gives an overall indication of leadership capability. This is followed by the results at a cluster and behaviour level.
